MOTHERS: ARE YOUR BOYS and GIRLS READY FOR SCHOOL?

All the facilities and advantages of this store are yours during the coming days and weeks. You do not need to give one minute of thought to the matter of outfitting, just bring them here and have them supplied with everything to wear. It's the easiest, simplest, surest way.

ABOUT THAT BABY OF YOURS

We know you're interested in the baby's comfort—so are we—that's why we're handling the Wagner Quick Folding Go-Cart. It's roomy and comfortable for the baby—in fact has more room than the old style baby carriage. Has large flexible coil springs under the padded seat—REAL SPRINGS that take up all the jar and vibration and the baby gets the full benefit of them whether sitting up or lying down. Is light in weight and can be carried anywhere. It opens or closes automatically with one movement of the handle, and the seat is so placed that it can't tip backward. The large wheels make easy riding for the baby, easy wheeling for the mother. A brake on rear wheel prevents accidents.

Wagner

QUICK FOLDING GO-CART

No other go-cart has the attractive appearance of the Wagner. Beautifully finished in every detail—built on graceful lines. Has highly polished nickle-plated and enameled parts. Upholstered in the very best grade of leatherette. Won't it be lots of satisfaction to know that your baby has the best go-cart that money can buy?

We have on our floor a full line of the new models. They are certainly beauties. Just drop in and see them. You won't be obliged to buy—we will leave it to your own judgment.

HOW A LOCAL NEWSPAPER MAY BE MADE A SUCCESS

Give All The News That Is Fit To Print While It Is News—Fix Fair Price For Everything You Have For Sale

A Speech by Fletcher Davis, Editor of the Hondo [Texas] Anvil Herald, delivered before the Southwest Texas Press and Commercial Association at Alpine, Texas.

From The Publishers' Auxiliary.

It was the immortal Alexander Pope who, in his incomparable Essay on Man, said:

"Man never is, but always to be blessed".

So I find in the newspaper business success is never achieved, but is always in the making.

A definition of what constitutes success in the newspaper business would doubtless have to be varied to suit each individual's idea of what success is. We all have our ideals. The nearer we approach our ideal in any undertaking, the nearer are we to the achievement of success. Hence, it must follow, also, that to achieve real success this ideal must be a correct one.

My ideal of a country newspaper that is making a success is one that is thoroughly covering its local field. To achieve success in this, it is necessary that a success be made of several other things connected with the conduct of a paper. By covering the field, we mean that the paper should, first of all, give all of the news of its locality that is fit to print while it is news and in an attractive and pleasing manner. With the low price of large daily and semi-weekly papers now, we presume that country newspapers have virtually abandoned the idea of supplying the demand for a general newspaper and have done well when they have covered their own territory in the capacity of a specialist in this line. The gathering of the news of his locality will naturally bring the newspaper man into contact with all classes and conditions of society and bring into his purview every phase of human interest. Here he must exercise the utmost discretion.

On the one side is his duty to those who buy his paper to give them the news; on the other is the feelings and interests of those affected by the transaction that demand consideration and respect. Davy Crockett said, "Be sure you are right, then go ahead." Brave old David never ran a newspaper or he would have learned that it is not the courage to go ahead that most of us need as much as the cunning to know when we are right. I can think of no better way of making this point clear and laying down a correct rule of action to guide one along this line than to relate here a little story of human interest and experience.

There was a young man received a message that his mother, heaven's first and best gift to man, lay dying in a distant state. Those who have never lived for years in daily dread of this message, can not realize the shock it gives one when at last it arrives. In his grief, and fear that he might reach his mother too late, he rushed off without considering his route or making adequate preparations for the trip. At last, much worn with long travel and chafed by the seeming interminable and lagging roll of the wheels, he finds himself on the wrong route, his money gone and a ticket that subjected him to a thirteen-hours' delay unless something could be done. To the conductor on the next division, he told his heart-touching story. The conductor must violate the rules and take him over a portion of the road for which his ticket did not read or the face of his dear, dead mother might be hidden from him forever. The tender-hearted railroad man—and the roughest are ever the tenderest—heard the story. And, taking the young man's hand in his own, he said: "Young man, I have made it a rule of my life always to put myself in the other fellow's place. I will carry you through and take the consequences with the company." This man's generous service put the young man at his destination just in time for one more last, sad, longing farewell look at his mother's face before the clouds closed over it forever.

So we find it a safe rule, even though it means a scoop for your rival, to put yourself in the other fellow's place, and if there is aught in the story that will bring sorrow or shame to an innocent one cut it out. When this rule becomes universal, the yellow journal and the salacious newspaper will happily become things of the past, and newspapers will have achieved that noble success of having educated the public mind up to the point where, instead of reveling in scandal and human depravities, it will heed and appreciate the Apostle's splendid advice:

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

This should be the country newspaper's creed, the ideal to which the editor aspires to climb and to draw as far as may be his readers with him.

However, the mere telling of the news, though accurately, pleasingly done and without giving offence, is only one of the manifold duties that will devolve upon him if he is to succeed as a newspaper maker. While, as said in the outset, the local newspaper need not try to be a general newspaper, and I might remark here that it would be equally futile to attempt to run a literary magazine, it is essential that some variety be given to the contents of the paper. Even the staid religious journal finds it expedient to unbend to a humorous column now and then, and the local paper cannot afford to ignore altogether the demand for something light, something that will tickle the risibles of the lighter minded or the one who seeks diversion from the more serious. The alert newspaper man will soon know his clientele and be prepared to serve it with the proper kind and the right quantity of variety, just as the chef provides the proper seasoning for the repast; just as, I might add, our program committee has provided for a flow of soul out at the ball park to follow this feast of reason here!

In this connection, I come to consider the editorial column. This is a feature that used to count for much, because it was a reflection of the personality behind it. No part of the newspaper business in recent years has been worse prostituted. While a newspaper without an editorial column is like Hamlet with Hamlet left out, we are of the emphatic opinion that any paper would be infinitely better off without an editorial than to give voice to that which does not express its fearless, out-spoken and honest convictions. Of course, the innocent jest is permissible, the humorous reflection or the witty crack appropriate, and all of us would be better and more successful newspaper men if we had a more acute sense of the humorous side of things. For where—

"A little nonsense now and then
Is wishful by the wisest men."
For a newspaper bloke
To perpetrate a joke
Can surely not be any sin!

Even poetry, you see, is permissible, if one's readers are a patient set!

But what we mean to emphasize here is that a paper when it voices an opinion should voice an honest one. Better that it be honest than be ever so learned. But the moment a paper takes a positive stand on any proposition it has made enemies and may expect that awfullest of calamities to a newspaper, the loss of a subscriber! Here the question arises, does it pay? From a financial standpoint, it may not. But from any other point of view, it does. No man has achieved a success in the newspaper business until he refuses to barter his self-respect—and his right to an honest opinion, springing from a heart in love with truth and attuned to a sincere desire to be of service, and that freely expressed—for any man's patronage. In this, as in the matter of news, a man's success lies in lofty purpose, in his ability to see and espouse the correct principle, and in his courage and ability to maintain his position. The effort will cost him many an unequal struggle. It will make him taste of the bitter dregs of ingratitude. It will cause him to feel the turn of the thumb-screws of spite and hate. It will compel him to suffer the rack and the wheel of misrepresentation and persecution. But if through it all you can keep a clear conscience, and

To think own self be true,
It must follow that thou canst not be false
to any man.

And you will have the satisfaction of living to see those who have despitefully used you, reviled you, and persecuted you, turn to your warmest friends. Is not this a success for which we might well

Learn to labor and to wait.

And this brings us finally to the last but by no means the least feature of making a success of a country newspaper—the financial end. It requires money and lots of it to make these other things possible. And the money must come out of the business while these other things are being accomplished. Many a good newspaper man is having his efforts handicapped and his achievements dwarfed by the ever present dread of having to make the ghost walk. Old Shakespeare must have had Saturday evening in a print shop in mind when he spoke of the ghost that will not down. It is the spectre that chills our fondest hopes and slays our heaven-born ideals. We can no more escape it than the day can overcome the night.

The financial feature of a newspaper is "a condition and not a theory that confronts us." In dealing with this there are two things to be considered—the income and the outgo.

The income of no country newspaper is what it should be. If we were compensated for all we do, the constant care and attention to detail, the never ending and unflagging labor our position entails, we would soon be rich enough to retire and allow others to take our places. And yet we, as a class, are largely responsible for our lack of proper compensation for our services. We do not place a proper valuation on our services. We are too anxious to beat the other fellow out of a job and we often cut all of the profit out of it to our own hurt, to the lowering of the business standing of the craft and to the benefit of a business public that laughs us to scorn for not exacting what is our just due. It is this that makes the newspaper man's poverty one of the principal assets of the jokesmiths. The elevating of the standard of prices and the promotion of an ethical standard that will enable the craft to stand together to the end that the laborer shall receive what is his reasonable and just hire affords what I regard as the greatest field for usefulness of such organizations as this. The day when advertising was given and accepted "merely to help the paper out" is now happily past, and no man worthy to be taken by the hand as a brother in the craft will now accept business on any other basis than that of value received in the service rendered. Let us, then, put the proper valuation upon this service, whether it be given through subscription to the paper, advertising in its columns or the output of our job presses.

Having found for ourselves what the income should be, we have to look to the expenditures. A very common mistake of most of us is to try to give too much for the money, thus robbing ourselves to benefit the public. This requires careful observation properly to gauge. This determined, the proper mechanical equipment to handle the work required in our territory is a prime requisite of success. No less essential is the proper help. These details a man must constantly watch and study. Experience will soon teach him where he is failing and wherein lies his success.

You will have observed that I have ignored everything of a boom nature. Remarkable successes have been made by various and sundry schemes, but my observation has been that such success is only ephemeral and not of that enduring kind that brings satisfaction and contentment with one's lot in life and his achievements.

To sum up, let us say that success in a country newspaper lies in the having and striving for high and worthy ideals.

The nearer we approach to these ideals the greater is the measure of our success. The nearer we can come to the achievement of this success depends upon our securing the proper compensation for our labor and the judiciousness with which we expend our income. He is succeeding best who is approaching nearest to the loftiest ideal. The man who can not do these things has no place in the newspaper field and will soon gravitate to the low plane of failure just as naturally as water seeks its level. The newspaper man must be a man of lofty ideals. He must be a patriot, ready to work for his section and its people in season and out. He must be a man capable of rising above the petty and mean. He must be a man broad-minded and liberal and in love with his work. He must be that noblest work of God, an honest man, so that however others may differ from him none can justly assail his integrity. These things, coupled with a real desire to be of service and a willingness to work without ceasing towards the attainment of his ends, will bring him success. And though he may never be able to write his name among the millionaires, he will have won what is a greater reward, the consciousness that he is one among the number of whom it can be said—

"He who does the best his circumstances will allow,
Does well, acts nobly; angels could do no more!"

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His was fed. The questions of digestion and nutrition not entered into his calculations. It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would do an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds self regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that he grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nerve.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance cure. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery".

Snow Liniment
Is a Healing Remedy for All Ailments of
the Flesh of Man and Beast.

The speed with which this splendid liniment heals up a bad wound or sore has surprised and pleased those who were accustomed to the slower and uncertain effect of less powerful remedies. It mends the lacerated flesh so quickly that there is but little time lost from work. In relieving rheumatic pains, neuralgia, sciatica, it has done and is doing a wonderful work. Many chronic victims of these diseases have found to their great satisfaction that it cures an attack in a fraction of the time required
by the ordinary treatment.

It is equally effective in the flesh ailments of animals. Owners of blooded stock value it highly for two reasons: It heals sores
and wounds quickly, and leaves no disfiguring scars.
This remedy is needed in every home. If its great power and efficacy was generally known, no family would be without it.

HOW A LOCAL NEWSPAPER MAY BE MADE A SUCCESS

Give All The News That Is Fit To Print
While It Is News—Fix Fair Price For Everything You Have For Sale

A Speech by Fletcher Davis, Editor of the Hondo [Texas] Anvil Herald, delivered before the Southwest Texas Press and Commercial Association at Alpine, Texas.

From The Publishers' Auxiliary.

It was the immortal Alexander Pope who, in his incomparable Essay on Man, said:

"Man never is, but always to be blessed".

So I find in the newspaper business success is never achieved, but is always in the making.

A definition of what constitutes success in the newspaper business would doubtless have to be varied to suit each individual's idea of what success is. We all have our ideals. The nearer we approach our ideal in any undertaking, the nearer are we to the achievement of success. Hence, it must follow, also, that to achieve real success this ideal must be a correct one.

My ideal of a country newspaper that is making a success is one that is thoroughly covering its local field. To achieve success in this, it is necessary that a success be made of several other things connected with the conduct of a paper. By covering the field, we mean that the paper should, first of all, give all of the news of its locality that is fit to print while it is news and in an attractive and pleasing manner. With the low price of large daily and semi-weekly papers now, we presume that country newspapers have virtually abandoned the idea of supplying the demand for a general newspaper and have done well when they have covered their own territory in the capacity of a specialist in this line. The gathering of the news of his locality will naturally bring the newspaper man into contact with all classes and conditions of society and bring into his purview every phase of human interest. Here he must exercise the utmost discretion.

On the one side is his duty to those who buy his paper to give them the news; on the other is the feelings and interests of those affected by the transaction that demand consideration and respect. Davy Crockett said, "Be sure you are right, then go ahead." Brave old David never ran a newspaper or he would have learned that it is not the courage to go ahead that most of us need as much as the cunning to know when we are right. I can think of no better way of making this point clear and laying down a correct rule of action to guide one along this line than to relate here a little story of human interest and experience.

There was a young man received a message that his mother, heaven's first and best gift to man, lay dying in a distant state. Those who have never lived for years in daily dread of this message, can not realize the shock it gives one when at last it arrives. In his grief, and fear that he might reach his mother too late, he rushed off without considering his route or making adequate preparations for the trip. At last, much worn with long travel and chafed by the seeming interminable and lagging roll of the wheels, he finds himself on the wrong route, his money gone and a ticket that subjected him to a thirteen-hours' delay unless something could be done. To the conductor on the next division, he told his heart-touching story. The conductor must violate the rules and take him over a portion of the road for which his ticket did not read or the face of his dear, dead mother might be hidden from him forever. The tender-hearted railroad man—and the roughest are ever the tenderest—heard the story. And, taking the young man's hand in his own, he said: "Young man, I have made it a rule of my life always to put myself in the other fellow's place. I will carry you through and take the consequences with the company." This man's generous service put the young man at his destination just in time for one more last, sad, longing farewell look at his mother's face before the clouds closed over it forever.

So we find it a safe rule, even though it means a scoop for your rival, to put yourself in the other fellow's place, and if there is aught in the story that will bring sorrow or shame to an innocent one cut it out. When this rule becomes universal, the yellow journal and the salacious newspaper will happily become things of the past, and newspapers will have achieved that noble success of having educated the public mind up to the point where, instead of reveling in scandal and human depravities, it will heed and appreciate the Apostle's splendid advice:

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

This should be the country newspaper's creed, the ideal to which the editor aspires to climb and to draw as far as may be his readers with him. However, the mere telling of the news, though accurately, pleasingly done and without giving offence, is only one of the manifold duties that will devolve upon him if he is to succeed as a newspaper maker. While, as said in the outset, the local newspaper need not try to be a general newspaper, and I might remark here that it would be equally futile to attempt to run a literary magazine, it is essential that some variety be given to the contents of the paper. Even the staid religious journal finds it expedient to unbend to a humorous column now and then, and the local paper cannot afford to ignore altogether the demand for something light, something that will tickle the risibles of the lighter minded or the one who seeks diversion from the more serious. The alert newspaper man will soon know his clientele and be prepared to serve it with the proper kind and the right quantity of variety, just as the chef provides the proper seasoning for the repast; just as, I might add, our program committee has provided for a flow of soul out at the ball park to follow this feast of reason here!

In this connection, I come to consider the editorial column. This is a feature that used to count for much, because it was a reflection of the personality behind it. No part of the newspaper business in recent years has been worse prostituted. While a newspaper without an editorial column is like Hamlet with Hamlet left out, we are of the emphatic opinion that any paper would be infinitely better off without an editorial than to give voice to that which does not express its fearless, out-spoken and honest convictions. Of course, the innocent jest is permissible, the humorous reflection or the witty crack appropriate, and all of us would be better and more successful newspaper men if we had a more acute sense of the humorous side of things. For where—

"A little nonsense now and then
Is relished by the wisest men."
For a newspaper bloke
To perpetrate a joke
Can surely not be any sin!

Even poetry, you see, is permissible, if one's readers are a patient set!

But what we mean to emphasize here is that a paper when it voices an opinion should voice an honest one. Better that it be honest than be ever so learned. But the moment a paper takes a positive stand on any proposition it has made enemies and may expect that awfullest of calamities to a newspaper, the loss of a subscriber! Here the question arises, does it pay? From a financial standpoint, it may not. But from any other point of view, it does. No man has achieved a success in the newspaper business until he refuses to barter his self-respect—and his right to an honest opinion, springing from a heart in love with truth and attuned to a sincere desire to be of service, and that freely expressed—for any man's patronage. In this, as in the matter of news, a man's success lies in lofty purpose, in his ability to see and espouse the correct principle, and in his courage and ability to maintain his position. The effort will cost him many an unequal struggle. It will make him taste of the bitter dregs of ingratitude. It will cause him to feel the turn of the thumb-screws of spite and hate. It will compel him to suffer the rack and the wheel of misrepresentation and persecution. But if through it all you can keep a clear conscience, and

To think own self be true,
It must follow that thou canst not be false
to any man.

And you will have the satisfaction of living to see those who have despitefully used you, reviled you, and persecuted you, turn to your warmest friends. Is not this a success for which we might well

Learn to labor and to wait.

And this brings us finally to the last but by no means the least feature of making a success of a country newspaper—the financial end. It requires money and lots of it to make these other things possible. And the money must come out of the business while these other things are being accomplished. Many a good newspaper man is having his efforts handicapped and his achievements dwarfed by the ever present dread of having to make the ghost walk. Old Shakespeare must have had Saturday evening in a print shop in mind when he spoke of the ghost that will not down. It is the spectre that chills our fondest hopes and slays our heaven-born ideals. We can no more escape it than the day can overcome the night.

The financial feature of a newspaper is "a condition and not a theory that confronts us." In dealing with this there are two things to be considered—the income and the outgo.

The income of no country newspaper is what it should be. If we were compensated for all we do, the constant care and attention to detail, the never ending and unflagging labor our position entails, we would soon be rich enough to retire and allow others to take our places. And yet we, as a class, are largely responsible for our lack of proper compensation for our services. We do not place a proper valuation on our services. We are too anxious to beat the other fellow out of a job and we often cut all of the profit out of it to our own hurt, to the lowering of the business standing of the craft and to the benefit of a business public that laughs us to scorn for not exacting what is our just due. It is this that makes the newspaper man's poverty one of the principal assets of the jokesmiths. The elevating of the standard of prices and the promotion of an ethical standard that will enable the craft to stand together to the end that the laborer shall receive what is his reasonable and just hire affords what I regard as the greatest field for usefulness of such organizations as this. The day when advertising was given and accepted "merely to help the paper out" is now happily past, and no man worthy to be taken by the hand as a brother in the craft will now accept business on any other basis than that of value received in the service rendered. Let us, then, put the proper valuation upon this service, whether it be given through subscription to the paper, advertising in its columns or the output of our job presses.

Having found for ourselves what the income should be, we have to look to the expenditures. A very common mistake of most of us is to try to give too much for the money, thus robbing ourselves to benefit the public. This requires careful observation properly to gauge. This determined, the proper mechanical equipment to handle the work required in our territory is a prime requisite of success. No less essential is the proper help. These details a man must constantly watch and study. Experience will soon teach him where he is failing and wherein lies his success.

You will have observed that I have ignored everything of a boom nature. Remarkable successes have been made by various and sundry schemes, but my observation has been that such success is only ephemeral and not of that enduring kind that brings satisfaction and contentment with one's lot in life and his achievements.

To sum up, let us say that success in a country newspaper lies in the having and striving for high and worthy ideals.

The nearer we approach to these ideals the greater is the measure of our success. The nearer we can come to the achievement of this success depends upon our securing the proper compensation for our labor and the judiciousness with which we expend our income. He is succeeding best who is approaching nearest to the loftiest ideal. The man who can not do these things has no place in the newspaper field and will soon gravitate to the low plane of failure just as naturally as water seeks its level. The newspaper man must be a man of lofty ideals. He must be a patriot, ready to work for his section and its people in season and out. He must be a man capable of rising above the petty and mean. He must be a man broad-minded and liberal and in love with his work. He must be that noblest work of God, an honest man, so that however others may differ from him none can justly assail his integrity. These things, coupled with a real desire to be of service and a willingness to work without ceasing towards the attainment of his ends, will bring him success. And though he may never be able to write his name among the millionaires, he will have won what is a greater reward, the consciousness that he is one among the number of whom it can be said—

"He who does the best his circumstances will allow,
Does well, acts nobly; angels could do no more!"

The Tenderfoot Food

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His was fed. The questions of digestion and nutrition were not entered into his calculations. It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds his cow for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the cow grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervous indigestion.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nervous system, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance cure. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

Peevish Children.

Children are retarded in growth,
held back in school, become peevish, nervous and fretful all because of some stomach disturbances. Look after your children's bowels. Do not allow them to become constipated. See that they digest their food properly. Then they will look well and feel well. To regulate the stomach and bowels and cure these disturbances, give them Dr.
Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as specially

Character Above All.

Young man, character is worth more than money, character is worth more than anything else in this wide world.
I would rather have it said of me in my old age than to have a monument of pure gold built over my dead body reaching from earth to heaven—I would rather have it said that "they could find no occasion against him except it be touching the law of his God," than to have all this world can give.—Dwight L. Moody.

Accused Of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me. boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles.
"It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says,
"as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at W. H. Windrow's.

Those Girls.

"What a charming dress, my dear!
Such a lovely shade of pink. You always show such perfect taste." (Merciful heavens: That dress must have been made for a wagon cover. And why in the name of sense she wears pink when it makes her look like a chunk of mud. I can not imagine.)

Cuts and bruises may be healed in about one-third the time required by the usual treatment by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. It is an antiseptic and causes such injuries to heal without maturation. This liniment also relieves soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains. For sale by all dealers.

Neglected wounds produce old sores and

Ballard's
Snow Liniment
Is a Healing Remedy for All Ailments of
the Flesh of Man and Beast.
The speed with which this splendid liniment heals up a bad wound or sore has surprised and pleased those who were accustomed to the slower and uncertain effect of less powerful remedies. It mends the lacerated flesh so quickly that there is but little time lost from work. In relieving rheumatic pains, neuralgia, sciatica, it has done and is doing a wonderful work. Many chronic victims of these diseases have found to their great satisfaction that it cures an attack in a fraction of the time required
by the ordinary treatment.
It is equally effective in the flesh ailments of animals. Owners of blooded stock value it highly for two reasons: It heals sores
and wounds quickly, and leaves no disfiguring scars.
This remedy is needed in every home. If its great power and efficacy was generally known, no family would be without it.

The Modern Way.
I freighted them with hopes and fears
To sail across the foam,
And vainly have I waited since
To see my ships come home.
But, ah, my ships were far too light
For crests they had to brave,
Too deep the seas of destiny,
Too towering the wave.
And, oh, my ships drew too much draught
For waters that were charmed,
Too shallow was the stream of chance
To bear them on unharmed.
When seas are filled and streams are dug
My ships may safely float,
So I must wait till powers make
The tides to fit the boat.

Finger-Koch Wedding.

On Wednesday morning, August 23rd, at 8:30 o'clock at the church of St. Dominic in old D'Hanis, Mr. Charles Finger of Hondo and Miss Emma Koch of D'Hanis were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The Rev. Father Kuni of Uvalde performed the ceremony with all the solemnity and impressive dignity which the Catholic church attaches to the marriage of her children.

After the ceremony all repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Koch, where a reception in honor of the bride and groom was held.

A grand banquet was served to all the guests and the affair lasted the entire day.

Wednesday night a grand wedding dance was given at the Sauter & Koch Hall where all present had a splendid time.

Mr. and Mrs. Finger departed Thursday evening on a wedding trip to Galveston and other points. On their return they will make their home at Hondo where Mr. Finger enjoys a lucrative position in the First National Bank and where he has built a home for the reception of his bride.

The good wishes of the many friends and relatives of the young couple accompanied them and in them the News most heartily joins.—D'Hanis News.

Through The Year With Jesus.

Contributed.
One grew rich and the other grew poor. To the Father in heaven a very rich man and a very poor man are just alike if they both love and serve Him with their whole heart. Ah! There is a difference. The rich man grew to trust in his riches more than he trusted in God, and the more he trusted in riches the harder and more selfish he grew. Lazarus was very poor—a beggar—and sick and sore. The name Lazarus means "God is my help". Ah! That is the great thing. This poor man lying at the rich man's gate trusted in God. The lives of these men grew wider and wider apart; and oh, how very far they were when the death angel came to them! Now, what is our own heart's lesson today? If I trust God the end will be a bright home forever with Jesus. If I trust riches and pleasant things without God the home will be dark and without Jesus.

Two Sorts of Paint Makers.

Why don't Devoe make paint, as many others do, to go three-quarters as far, or two-thirds, or half, or a quarter?

Mr. Aaron Higgins, Plainfield, N. J., always used 15 gallons of paint for his house; Devoe took 11.

There are two sorts of paint: all paint, true paint, strong paint, full measure; and part paint, false paint, weak paint, short-measure.

The paint-manufacturers are two sorts: Devoe and the rest. 18 Holloway Bros.

Here is the kind of an obituary a Georgia editor put up for a man: "Poor Jim Jones slung his earthly garments on a flub and swam the river yesterday. Jim was a poor man, but had his subscription to his home paper paid up and got there in good shape. Peace to his memory."

Pains All Over!

"You are welcome," says Mrs. Nora Guffey, of Broken Arrow, Okla., "to use my letter in any way you want to, if it will induce some suffering woman to try Cardui. I had pains all over, and suffered with an abscess. Three physicians failed to relieve me. Since taking Cardui, I am in better health than ever before, and that means much to me, because I suffered many years with womanly troubles, of different kinds. What other treatments I tried, helped me for a few days only."

Who Was There That You Knew?

In the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Carfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $250,000—yet with the help of the Review or Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

Theophile Gautier as a Journalist.

M. Paul Bourget has been lecturing on Theophile Gautier and expressing pity for him as a struggling journalist. How hard he struggled may be judged from his account books, which have been published by Baron Spoelberch de Lovenjoul. He was both art critic and dramatic critic of La Presse; he was overworked, and his average earnings at "scale rates" amounted to about £260 a year.

His attitude toward literature consequently became cynical. "Masterpieces!" he once exclaimed, "I do not recognize masterpieces. I recognize nothing except copy at so much the line."

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at W. H. Windrow's.

The Smell Was Cheap.

"What's the strange, quaint odor?" asked a lady who was walking with a friend in the foyer of one of the big New York hotels. Her companion sniffed sharply. "Why, it's Japanese chrysanthemum oil," she replied. "It's rare nowadays. It's used on the hair, and is elaborately mixed with perfume. If there is anything more expensive I haven't heard of it."

Hay Fever, Asthma and Summer Colds

Must be relieved quickly and Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will do it. E. M. Stewart, 1034 Wolfarm St., Chicago, writes, "I have been greatly troubled during the hot summer months with Hay Fever and find that by using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound I get great relief." Many others who suffer similarly will be glad to benefit by Mr. Stewart's experience. Willman & Martin.

"As Dumb as a Fish."

"As dumb as a fish" is a saying that does not apply to many species of sea water denizens. The sardine, before it draws its last breath, raises a feeble squeak like the squeak of a mouse. In some fish the vocal organs are sonorous and well developed.—Harper's Weekly.

Stepping on a rusty nail has been the cause of many cases of lockjaw. The nail was not so much the fault as neglect of the wound. If such wound were promptly cleansed and BAL-LARD'S SNOW LINIMENT applied there would be no lockjaw, as the antiseptic properties of the liniment would counteract the poison and the wound would heal quickly. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by W. H. Windrow.

Train up a child in the way he should go, and even when he is old he will not depart from it.—Proverbs of Solomon, xlii:6.

A Woman's Look.

A woman can say more in a look than a man can in a book.—Boston Transcript.

The Family Paper

The printing press is the industrial educator of the age. The citizens of Texas lead those of all other states in the Union in the number of newspapers read per capita. The improvement of public highways and the establishment of rural free delivery routes has extended the zone of circulation and reading the newspapers has become as much a part of the work on the farm as caring for the stock, and it has proven about as profitable. The ability of a farmer can be as easily indexed by the literature he reads as by the crop he harvests.

Pipe Lines.

Pipe lines are primarily city builders. The pipe line brings the oil field to the refinery and the gas well to the city and to the factory, reducing the cost of transportation, as well as providing a feasible method of distributing the products of the oil and gas wells throughout the state. All enterprising cities should be connected with a pipe line.

Farm and Factory.

The farm and factory go hand in hand and the prosperity of either is dependent upon the other. By helping the factory to the farm we adjust economic conditions and the increase in value of live stock goes to the producer without increasing the price of meat to the consumer. By building factories in Texas we can greatly decrease the high cost of living.

Rural Telephones.

The scientist in giving the farmer improved varieties of products and the inventor in giving us machinery that reduces the cost of production, has performed a great service to the farmer. But the telephone, born from the creative mind of the inventive genius is destined to companion in utility and convenience all human accomplishments for the intelligent promotion of agriculture. The telephone is the improved public highway of information and is as valuable to the farmer in selling his products as good roads are in hauling his goods to the market.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by W. H. Windrow's.

Child's Request.

Bobby's aunt had often brought him some tiny chocolate mice, which he liked very much except for their size. One day he sidled up to her coaxing ly and said: "Auntie, next time you buy chocolate mice, won't you please buy rats?"

Loss of Time means Loss of Pay

Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little Penna St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Willman & Martin.

Date of Columbus' Birth.

Historians differ as to the date of Christopher Columbus' birth, as well as to the place where he was born. Some have it that he was born in 1436, other in 1437. If the first date be correct he was 56 years of age when he discovered America.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach.

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Youngpeters, Editor of The Sun, Lak View, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by all dealers.

Timely Warning To Calomel Users

Calomel is a Form of Mercury, and if It Stays in the Human System, Its Effect is Terrible. Ask Your Doctor.

Any physician will tell you that mercury, if it remains in the body, will soften and rot the bones, a disease doctors call necrosis of the bones. Calomel is a form of mercury, and to keep clear of danger it's a safe plan to take no calomel at all, especially as there is a better remedy.

Both children and grown people will find a perfect substitute for calomel in Dodson's Liver Tone, a pleasant, vegetable tonic that induces the liver to act and which never has any bad after-effect. In fact Dodson's Liver Tone will do every thing that calomel does without any of the dangers of calomel. A large bottle costs only fifty cents, and W. H. Windrow's drug store will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

BY NARRATOR.

ED. ANVIL HERALD:—

Ferd. Bless and Henry Poehler returned last Friday to their Kinney county homes after a week spent with relatives here. While they have not had the opportunity of doing much farming up there on account of the drouth, they told how they had been feasting on fish that they had been angling out of a near-by stream. So you can imagine that they have been telling some very good fish stories.

Mrs. G. Oefinger of San Antonio was here on a week's visit to her sister, Mrs. Matt. Saathoff. She returned home Friday, accompanied by her father, who had been spending the past several months here with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Matt. Saathoff.

MacDona Letter.

BY GREY EYES.

ED. ANVIL HERALD:—

A pleasant dance was given Saturday, August 19th, at the residence of Ed L. Mann of Mustang Prairie. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Sandwiches and cake were served at midnight to which ample justice was done. Music was furnished by the boll weevil string band. Plenty of refreshments were served during the evening. Best of order prevailed throughout the night. Then the sweet strains of "Home, Sweet Home" were played which sent everyone to their respective homes after an evening very much enjoyed. Those present were: Ed. Mann and family, August Mann and family of Mustang Prairie, Ed. Moeller and family of Lacoste, Fred Pieper and family of MacDona, Misses Lizzie and Alvina Kempf, Annie Fox and sister, Eva Luckie, Lizzie and Mary Pieper, Messrs. John Spencer, John Kempf, Ed. Barth, Richard Trappe, Willie Mann, Mike Luckie, Adolph, Tony and Otto Mann, Mr. Scott and a few others whose names I failed to learn.

Wm. Meckel made a business trip to Lacoste last Friday.

Mrs. Hy. Jungman was seen in town Monday.

Hy. Pieper made a business trip to Lacoste Monday.

A grand dance will be given at the MacDona hall September 4th. Everybody invited. August 22nd.

RUBBING IT IN.

For ten minutes Mr. Stubb had been stumbling around in the darkness looking for the kitchen stove. The air was cold and his temper was hot.

"John, are you still down here?" called Mrs. Stubb from the top of the stairway.

"Yes, I'm still here," bellowed John in his most sarcastic vein.

"Dear me! You'd never do as a gunner in the navy."

"Gunner in the navy? Why not?" "Because you are such a poor range finder."

And then what Mr. Stubb said about ranges in general would fill an encyclopedia.

"The cost of living is something terrible!"

"I know it. A man on a salary has no chance at all any more. I took a cheaper house last spring, we've had to take our daughter out of boarding school, instead of sending our son to college we've had to let him go to work in an office, and my wife has had to go to doing her own housework. Why, confound it! If things don't improve pretty soon we'll have to give up our automobile!"—Judge.

Doubly Philanthropic.

Venerable Scribe (on staff of Daily Bread)—Yes, sir; the proprietor of this paper has kept me in his employ for more than 40 years. I tell you, he's a genuine philanthropist.

The Other Man—Yes; I suppose if he hadn't done that you would have dropped down on some helpless community and started a paper of your own.

Back From Abroad.

The city niece was telling about her European trip.

"And Brussels," she related with much enthusiasm. "Ah, Brussels was such a charming city."

"Do tell!" exclaimed the rural aunt. "And which did you enjoy the most, dearie, Brussels carpets or Brussels sprouts?"

WOES OF THE SUBURBANITE.

Willie—What is the "suburban handicap," pa?

His Dad—The lawn mower in the summer and the snow shovel in the winter, my son.

The Futile Bluff.

Many a man has gone through life on nothing but a bare-faced bluff. Except in dealing with his wife.

We'll say no more—we've said enough.

Invincible Amazons.

"And just to think, John," said Mrs. Stubb, proudly, "if the suffragettes ever get into power the leaders will have their pictures on the postage stamps."

"By crickey!" sighed Mr. Stubb, with a far-away look, "that is the only way we'll ever be able to lick 'em."

The Fussing Bachelor.

"Why is it," queried the fair widow, "that they always say a man 'pines' for a woman?"

"I suppose," growled the fussy bachelor, "it's because pine is about the softest wood there is."

A Good Thing.

"Do you believe in the deathbed repentance?"

"Yes. I think the world would be greatly improved if a lot of people were making deathbed repentance at this moment."

A Mere Suspicion.

"I never permit myself to become the slave of a habit."

"Don't you? I had an idea that you had become a good deal of a slave to the habit of boasting about your strength of will."

To Economize Space.

"But why is it that you always serve toast with each slice stood up on edge?"

"Oh, I just got into the habit; you know we lived in a flat when we were first married."

Bald Statements.

"Dear, don't you know that the world has not much use for a woman who wears her dresses decollete?"

"I know that it hasn't much use for a man who wears his hair that way."

Up Against It.

Hix—Did you come by boat or by rail?

Dix—By boat, at the rail most of the time.
